M30 Nefopam

Scope of Practice	EMT
Classification	• Non-opioid analgesic
Usual Presentation	• 20mg/2ml ampule
Mechanism of Action	• Acts as a serotonin, norepinephrine, and dopamine reuptake inhibitor in the central nervous system, dampening pain signals.
Indications	• Moderate to severe pain
Contraindications	• Known allergy • History of epilepsy • Pain associated with STEMI/NSTEMI • Renal Impairment • Pediatrics <13 years
Precautions	• Nil
Side Effects	• Nausea • Vomiting • Tremors • Dry mouth
Adult Dose & Administration	• 20mg IV (once only, dilute with 100ml Normal Saline and administer as an infusion over 5 minutes)
Pediatric Dose & Administration	• Not for pediatric administration
Use in Pregnancy and Lactation	• Pregnancy: Safety has not been established. Nefopam is not recommended for use in pregnancy. • Lactation: Safety has not been established. Nefopam is not recommended for use during lactation.
Additional Information	• Nefopam must not be administered in the same IV line as Diclofenac as there is a chance of precipitation.